NAIDOC Week 2017

Western Kimberley enlargement

Lalang-garram / Camden Sound Marine Park
The Aboriginal consultation group, Dambimangari chose this word for the marine park for cultural reasons that respect the idea of saltwater without meaning just one place or one part of their traditional country.
The name "Lalang-garram" is a Worrorra word meaning "the saltwater as a spiritual place as well as a place of natural abundance".
The marine park originally took its name from Camden Sound, named in honour of Jefferys Pratt, Earl of Brecknock and Marquess Camden.

Lalang-garram / Horizontal Falls Marine Park
"Lalang-garram" is a Worrorra word meaning "the saltwater as a spiritual place as well as a place of natural abundance".
The Aboriginal consultation group, Dambimangari chose this word to the marine park for cultural reasons that respect the idea of saltwater.

Yawuru Nagulagun / Roebuck Bay Marine Park
Roebuck Bay is Yawuru Nagulagun which means Yawuru sea country.

ABORIGINAL AND DUAL NAMING POLICIES
Selection of any Aboriginal or dual name must take into consideration the impact the name will have on the wider community. The selection shall recognise that such names may bear specific provenance to the history or geography of a specific area or Aboriginal language group. Investigation into this level of association must be included as part of any assessment in determining the assignment of an Aboriginal or dual name.

ABORIGINAL COMMUNITY CONSULTATION
All dual naming proposals require the support of the native title representative body and, where relevant, tribal elders of the area. If the topographic feature covers more than one Aboriginal land council area e.g. a river, mountain range etc., approval must be sought from each relevant council. A written proposal should be sent to the local Aboriginal land council with details of the topographic or cultural site for which a dual name is being proposed.
The allowance of ample time for a reply may be required due to the local Aboriginal land council needing an unanticipated meeting to consider the proposal. If there is no response from the local or regional Aboriginal land council within three months, Landgate can submit the proposal to the Department of Aboriginal Affairs for consideration and support for its approval.

LANDGATE'S INVOLVEMENT
The 2017 theme is 'Our Languages Matter'.
Landgate plays a role in preserving Aboriginal language through its register of Geographic Names.
